

SELF INTRODUCTION

Vu Hoang Minh Chau

My name is Vu Hoang Minh Chau, and I am a medical doctor from Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam. I have a strong passion for oncology and nuclear medicine. I completed my medical studies at Pham Ngoc Thach University of Medicine, where I trained as a general practitioner from 2010 to 2016. After graduation, I joined Ho Chi Minh Oncology Hospital, where I worked from 2016 to 2024, focusing on cancer diagnosis and treatment. While there, I contributed to research and published three studies in oncology.

In November 2019, I attended a PET/CT fellowship at Zurich University Hospital to further enhance my expertise. I later participated as an exchange student at Taipei Medical University from September 2022 to January 2023. It has been my great honor to attend the doctoral course in the Department of Nuclear Medicine at Kanazawa University, starting in October 2024.

Learning abroad can be challenging, but thanks to the kindness of everyone here, my learning is progressing well. In the past, almost all my work and studies were clinical; I still do not have much experience in basic science and scientific research. But with the guidance of everyone here, I will do my best to broaden my knowledge in both basic and clinical.

Thank you very much.
